World Atlas

Runeterra Edition

World Atlas

Wondrous Item (Map), Uncommon

This unassuming sheet of parchment hums faintly with latent magic, its surface smooth and blank until activated. As an action, the user can activate the World Atlas, causing it to transform into a detailed map of a location of the user's choice within 10 miles of their current position. The map reflects static terrain features, such as mountains, rivers, and buildings, as well as recent changes like destroyed terrain or newly constructed structures. It does not display the movement of creatures.

The map updates in real-time for the next 4 hours, capturing any changes made to the terrain during that time. After this duration, the map fades, and the World Atlas reverts to its blank state.

The World Atlas can be reused after 20 hours as the magic recharges.

World Atlas

Wondrous Item (Map), Rare

As an action, the user can activate the map to display a 25-mile radius of a location of their choice. In addition to showing static terrain, it now includes basic markers for settlements, notable landmarks, and points of interest such as dungeons, ruins, or magical anomalies.

The map retains a record of previously displayed locations, allowing the user to switch between maps of areas they have already viewed. Switching maps is a bonus action.

Map of Insight. Once per long rest, the map can highlight an optimal route to a destination within its current view, avoiding natural hazards, difficult terrain, or obvious dangers.

The World Atlas can be reused after 12 hours as the magic recharges.

World Atlas

Wondrous Item (Map, requires Attunement), Very rare

At this stage, the World Atlas has evolved into a true masterpiece of magical cartography.

As an action, the user can activate the map to display a 50-mile radius of any location they choose. The map includes the following details:

- Static terrain, settlements, landmarks, and points of interest.
- Displays all creatures within the map's radius in real-time, represented as glowing dots.
- The user can focus on specific types of creatures (e.g., humanoids, beasts) to reduce visual clutter.

Insightful Gaze. Once per short rest, as an action, the user can touch a creature's marker on the map to reveal the following details: The creature's name, race, approximate age, and current condition, as well as any notable affiliations or titles the creature holds.

The map permanently records the locations it displays, along with the names and details of creatures viewed through it. The user can retrieve this information at any time.

People's Ledger. Once per long rest, the user can select a creature they have viewed through the map and gain access to direction and distance of the creature's current location if it is within 100 miles of the user.

The map recharges after 8 hours instead of 12.
